

CLAIMS

1. A personal interest semaphore system, further comprising:

at least one ornamental semaphore which can be worn on the first individual, or attached to the first individual's clothing, or incorporated into the first individual's clothing, which indicates a characteristic or trait of the first individual or a characteristic or trait which the first individual desires in a second individual;

whereby the first individual can signal the first individual's interests in desires to a second individual via the semaphores, and the second individual can interpret the semaphores to understand the characteristics and traits of the first individual and the characteristics and traits desired by the first individual.